

Salute to Schools & Teacher Warriors!!!

History will remember the contribution of teachers and schools during these times of unprecedented crises. It will bear testimony to the fact that the teachers put a great amount of work preparing lectures suitable for online classes and not letting the students go any day without any class.

This is service of the highest order. We must appreciate how much efforts, teachers are putting into their work. They start at 6 in the morning, make lectures, record them, revise them again and again, upload it everyday and then do it selflessly, just because the pupil must not go without any lecture.

India is not a country with high regards for education, whereas the western countries put a lot of effort in the dissemination of knowledge even during these times. It is also the duty of parents to look after their children and help them in their studies. It is a pity teaching is not an essential service, you can eat all you want but the brain has it's food in knowledge which cannot come by letting the pupil go without any new lecture everyday.

Now schools have added tremendous materials on different online portals. They surely are the corona warriors who made sure the pupils study, so that they go on to become doctors, engineers, officers who can counter future challenges like the one we are witnessing now.

Let us all recognise the efforts of teachers:- doctors, policemen, firefighters who come out in future too from amongst the pupils we teach today, whose education did not stop just because some microbe decided to run amok.
